Pale copper-rose color with aromas of sliced apple, peach, cantaloupe melon, lemon and pomelo. It's medium-bodied with tangy acidity and a fruity, easy palate. Dry. Drink now.

TOM CANNAVAN'S WINE-PAGES.COM

As the soaraway success of Whispering Angel continues, it is a smart move by Sacha Lichine to introduce this wine from Var en Provence... It's a blend of Grenache, Cinsault and Syrah and is in a broadly similar style to the Angel, very dry, quite savoury, focused around small red berry fruit... it is an excellent Provence pink and delivers plenty of style and quality in a very attractive package, and is bound to find lots of fans I suspect.

Quite pale colour. Fragrant nose with restrained fruit. On the palate well balanced with fine acidity, elegant minerality and good length. A charming and appealing wine with pleasant rusticity. Markus Del Monego

Ripe fruits, stroked with citrus and fresh fruits, this is light and bright. The wine is lively, with a hint of pepper at the end. Drink this wine now.

PINK.WINE

Very, very pale. Fresh, fruity, leafy aromas, with a hint of grapefruit and citrus. On the palate, fresh red fruit, dry and good acidity. Classic, simple, fresh and with enough fruit to thrive in the ice bucket.
